PETER PRY'S

PUPPET SHOW.

Part the II.

"There is a time for all things,
A time to work, and a time to play."

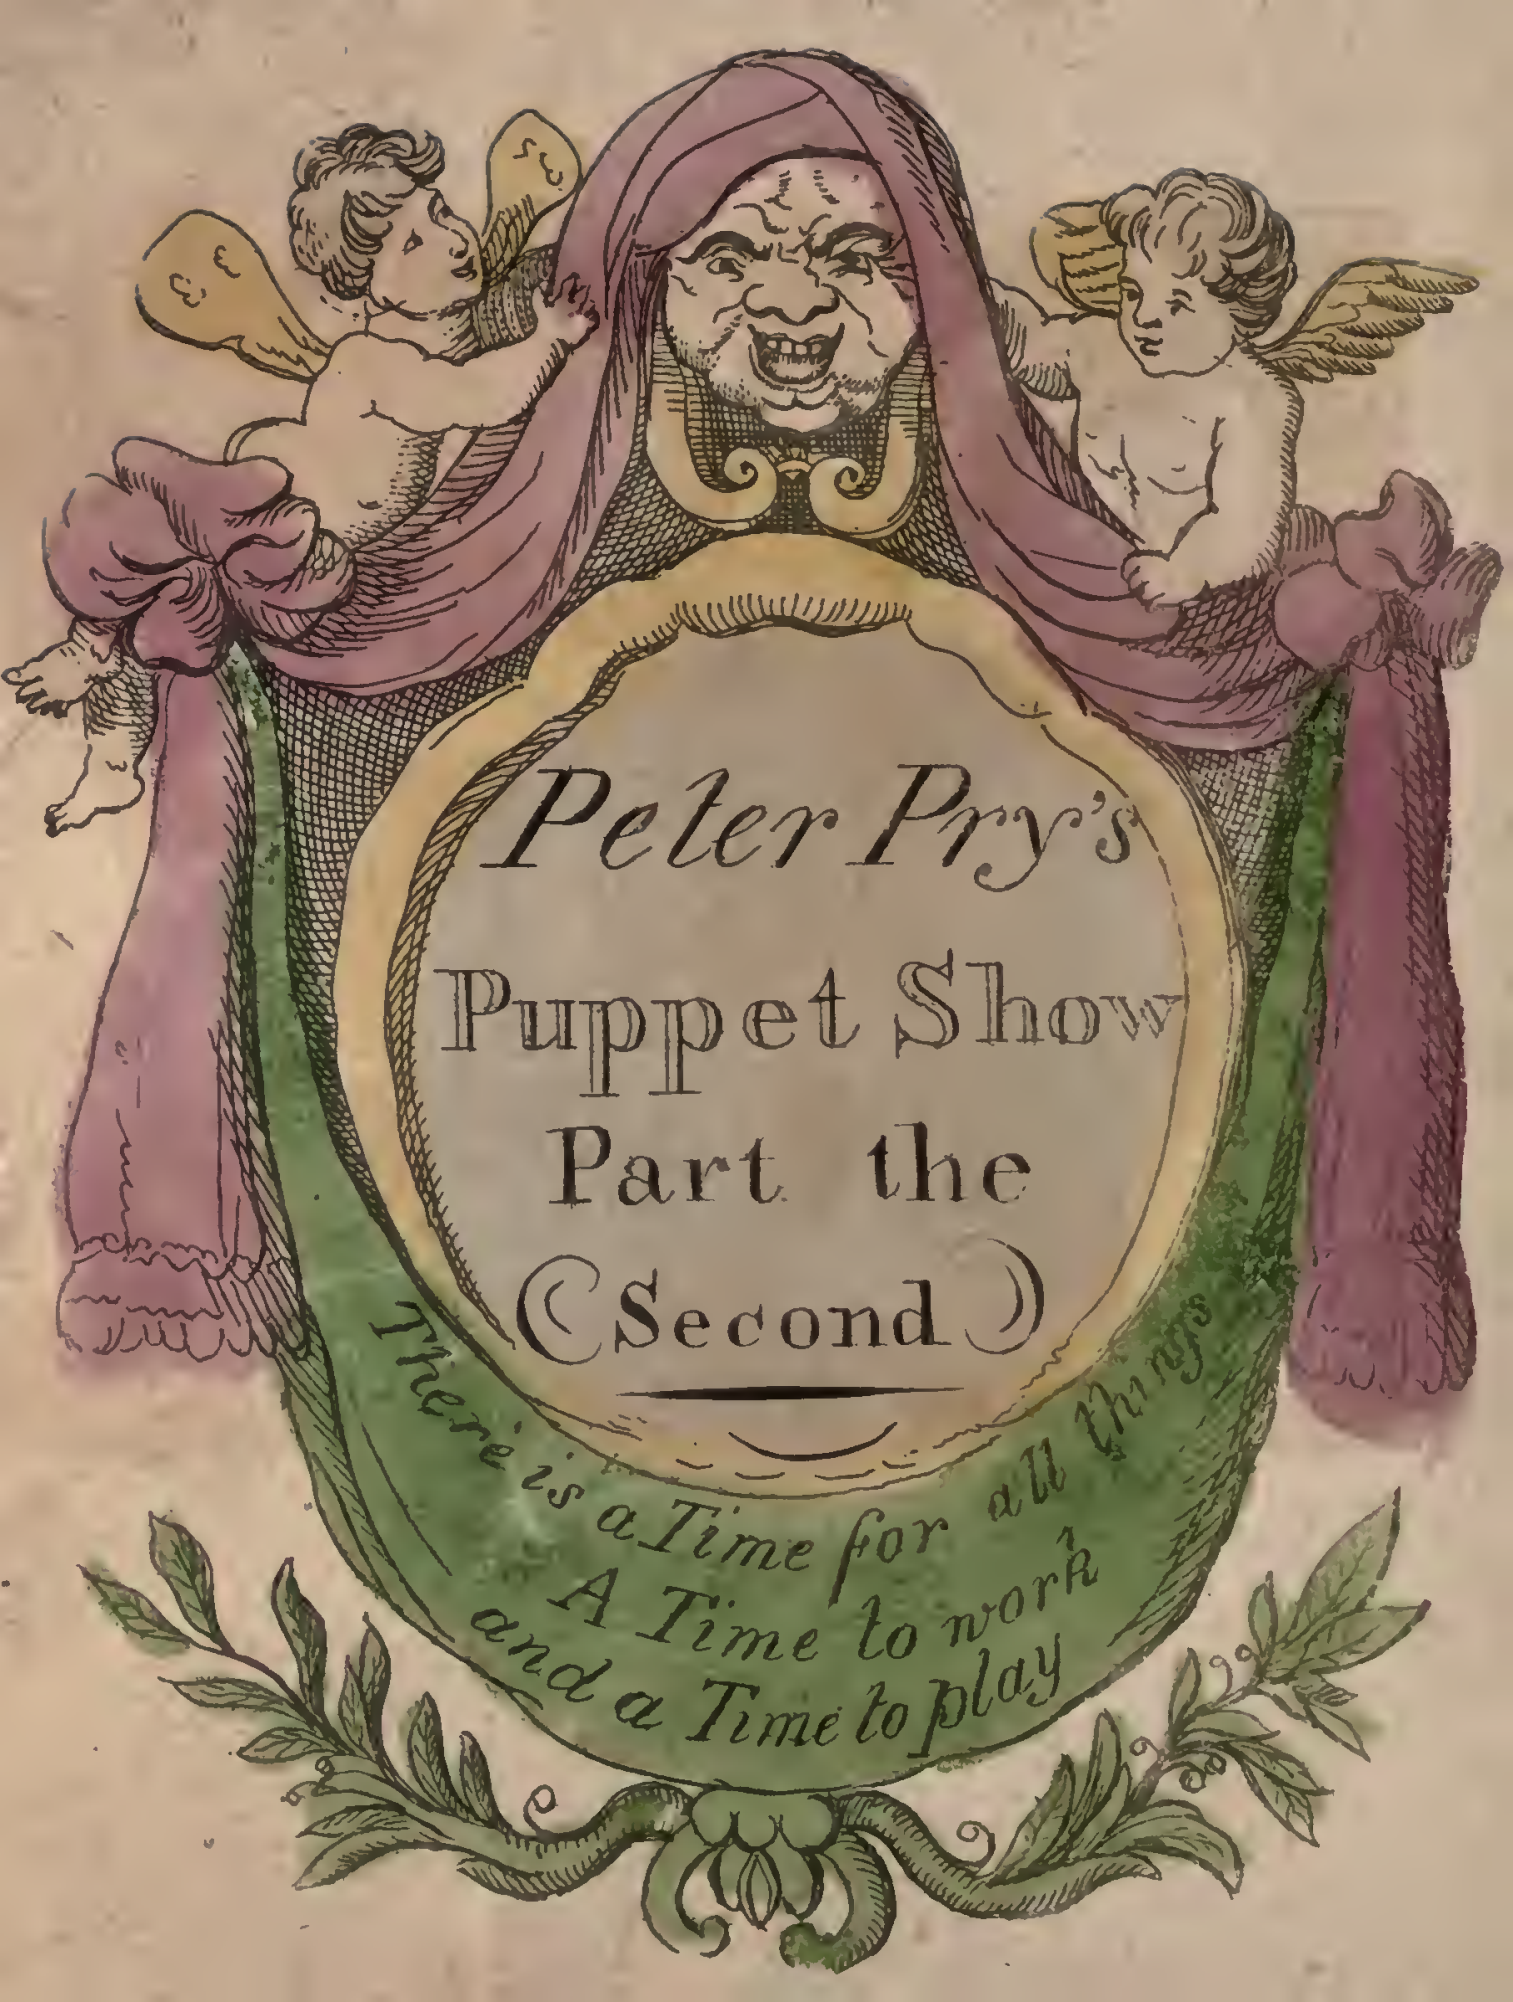
PHILADELPHIA:

Published and sold Wholesale and Retail by
MORGAN & SONS.

Price plain, 12½ cents—coloured, 18¾ cents.

CHILDREN'S BOOK
COLLECTION

LIBRARY OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA
LOS ANGELES



Peter Pry's
Puppet Show
Part the Second
There is a Time for all things
A Time to work
and a Time to play

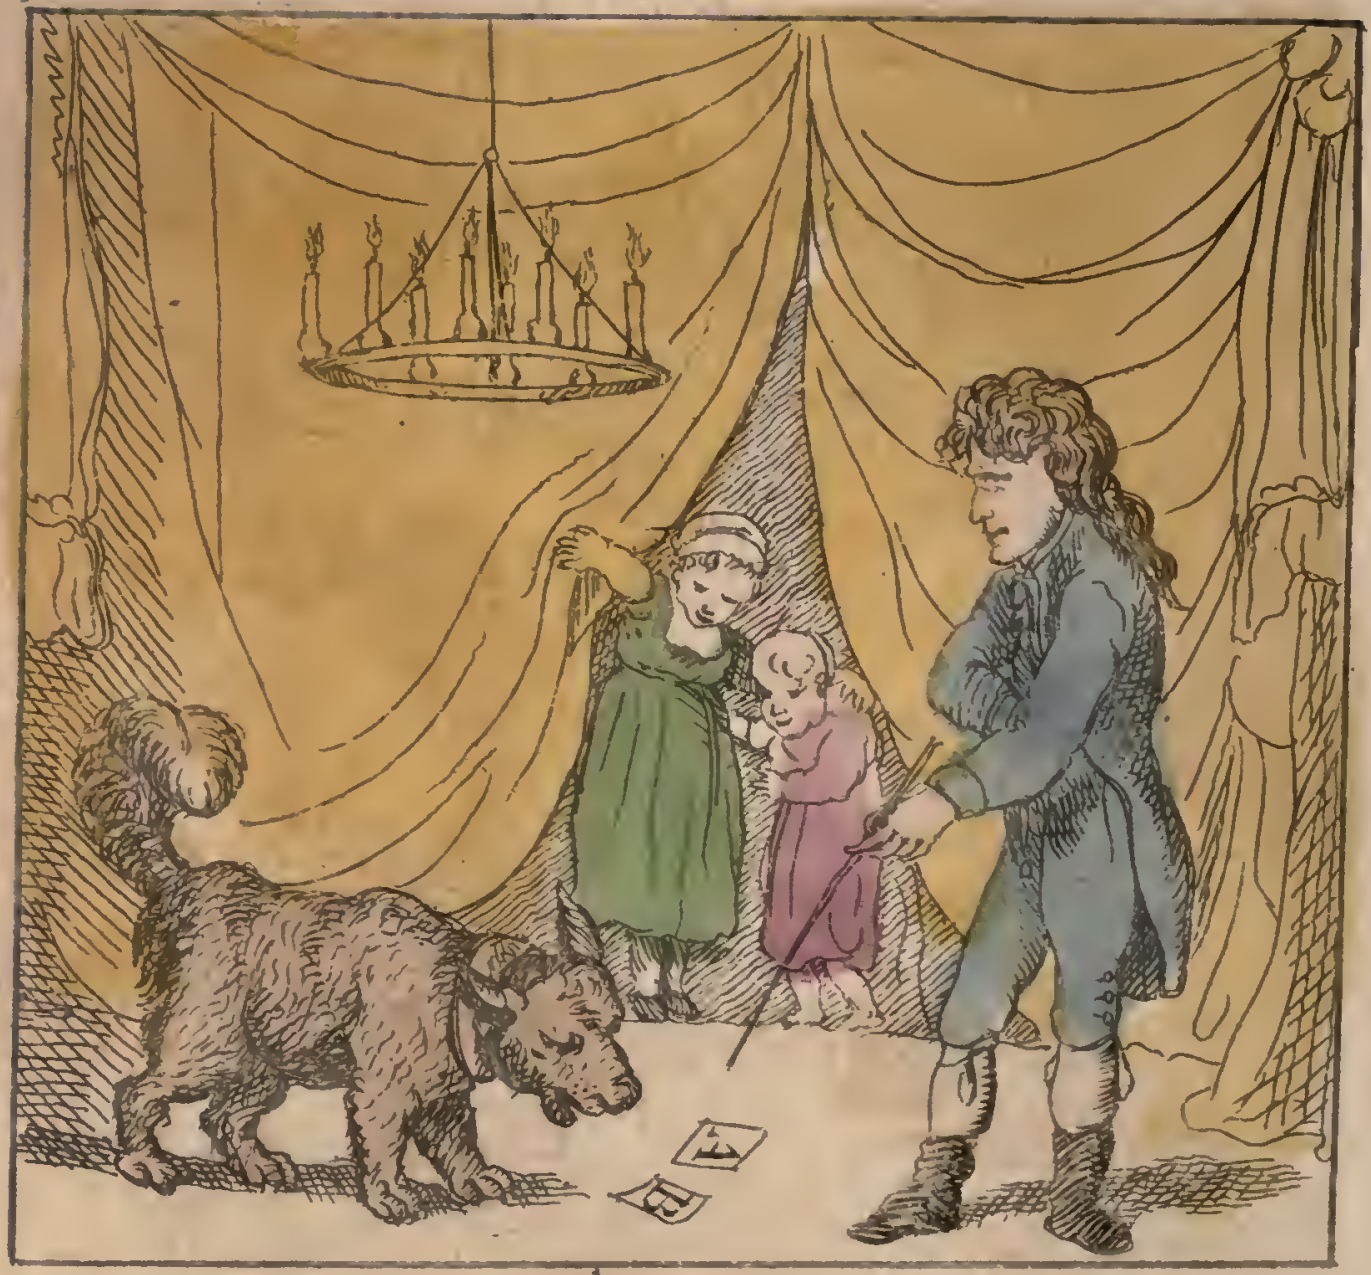
Here's johnny Bull From England come,
Who boast's of being a sailor,
But yankey tars will let him know.
He'll meet with many a Failure.

The Elephant upright and tall
Dress'd up in Eastern style Sir
His efforts here to show himself
I think will make you smile Sir

Here's Bruin next from Russia come,
Dont let him you affright, Sir
Tho in his manner rather rough
You'll find him here polite, Sir

Now here is somebody indeed!!
You'll know him Ill engage Sir,
If not, Ill tell you who it is,
Tis Boney in a Cage Sir,

Here's Somebody and Nobody.
To make you smile and laugh Sir,
Which you'll allow than crying is,
Much better far by half Sir



A learned Dog you now behold
Much more so than his betters.
Do you by him example take,
And study well your Letters.

To close the Show and thoroughly
To please you and content ye,
And give all due Variety
With Tumbling we present ye.

OF

MORGAN & SONS,

May be had the following improved

juvenile Books,

	Col'rd.	Plain
The Gamut and Time Table,	37½	25
The House that Jack Built,	37½	25
History of the Old Woman and her Pig,	37	25
Old Mother Hubbard and her Dog,	37	25
Dame Trot and her Comical Cat,	37	25
The Elm of Kensington, a Parody on the House that Jack Built,	31	18
Juvenile Pastimes, or sports for the four Seasons, embellished with 24 copperplate engravings,	31	18
John Gilpin's ride to Edmonton,	31	18
Mrs. Gilpin's return from Edmonton,	31	18
The Little Man and Maid,	31	18
The Forty Thieves,	31	18
Flora's Grand Gala,	31	18
Cinderella or the Little Glass Slipper,	25	18
The Little Poulterer,	25	18
The Little Farmer,	25	18

And a variety of others.

☞Shortly will be published,

Scriptnre Alphabet, by a Father to his Children,

Sweets for Leisure Hours, &c. &e.